

The Archaeology Channel

ALI is a nonprofit founded in 1999 and based in Oregon. Here is lots of information about our public mission, our people, why we exist, what we do, and what we have done.

Archaeological Legacy Institute - Our nonprofit organization.

Rick's Status Report - A priceless record of the early history of ALI.

The Archaeology Channel (TAC) is a streaming media Web site brought to you by Archaeological Legacy Institute (ALI).

We don't have the staff time to handle large volumes of letters or telephone calls, so please contact us by e-mail.

For general inquiries, you may e-mail us at info@archaeologychannel.org.

To propose content for the Video News from TAC, please send your suggestions to: videonewsTAC@archaeologychannel.org.

Send TAC Festival film entry forms to:

rick@archaeologychannel.org.

<http://www.archaeologychannel.org/>

The screenshot shows the homepage of The Archaeology Channel. The browser address bar displays www.archaeologychannel.org. The website header features the logo, the title "The Archaeology Channel", the tagline "Exploring the human cultural heritage through streaming media", a language selection dropdown, and a search bar. A navigation menu includes Home, Video, Audio, News, Events, Resources, Participation, About Us, Contact, and Help. The main content area is dominated by a large banner for "Our whole library of films..." which includes a globe, a compass, and the text "Now available in an easy-to-navigate Google Map" and "Try it now". To the right of the banner are several social media icons. Below the banner are three columns of featured content: "Featured Videos" with three entries from TAC (April, March, and February 2014), "Featured Audio" with three entries from Archaeologica (April, March, and March 2014), and "Support Our Underwriters" with logos for Kentucky Heritage Council and TAC Festival On the Road.